Library staff members present session at 2022 NJLA Conference

Three Atlantic City Free Public Library staff members and a former staff member were special presenters at the 2022 New Jersey Library Association Annual Conference on June 2 at Harrah's Resort Atlantic City.

Library staff Melissa McGeary, Adult Services Librarian, Jacqueline Silver-Morillo, Head Reference Librarian/Archivist and Kate Rowland, Digital Archives Assistant, and former staff member Heather Halpin Perez led the session "Grants as Opportunities for Growth."

They detailed how grant funding helped the Atlantic City Free Public Library achieve longstanding goals that fit the library's mission, provided examples of some of the funded programs, showed how grants filled library needs and shared some of the challenges that were experienced. They also answered questions from those in attendance.
